We have the pleasure of announcing that the Aeronautical Research Institute, University of Tokyo, has been established in April, 1958, resuming the function of the organization of the same name closed in December, 1945. Being a departmental organization of the national university, the Aeronautical Research Institute aims at the basic research in aeronautical sciences, particularly in aerodynamics, structures, power plants, propulsion, instruments, avionics and materials.

The research work of the Aeronautical Research Institute will be published mainly in the form of the Report as in the past. The Report will be written in most cases in English and published at irregular intervals. The new issue will begin at No. 330, following No. 329 which was the last number of the Report issued by the Aeronautical Research Institute, Tokyo Imperial University, June, 1945.
